SAN DIEGO -- PCL Construction has "topped out" on the San Diego Community College District's $20.6 million Linda Vista Continuing Education facility, a 38,000-square-foot, two-story, steel-framed structure.

The project architect is SGPA.

PCL's construction team includes Project Manager Kevin Smart and Superintendent Jim O'Dell. Project completion is slated for October 2012.

The facility will offer classes through Disabled Student Program and Services (DSPS), Emeritus and English as a Second Language (ESL).

It will also provide parent/child space, nutritional demonstration kitchenette, as well as administrative offices.

Fortune magazine announced this week that PCL Construction has been ranked 29th on the 15th annual "100 Best Companies to Work For" list.
